

“True, conventional wisdom says that fourth quarter is not the time to break a new artist, but you have to hear this!”

—John Schoenberger

Let's say, just hypothetically of course, that you were an ex-NFL football player and a sometimes actor and you decided one night to kill your ex-wife.

Track 1

“Where You Are”

Four years later, the world still wonders what that guy could have been thinking. Tom Sheehan has a theory.

Track 2 (Bonus)
“Die Like Elvis”
(radio edit) 3:59

“Where You Are,” the title track single from songwriter Tom Sheehan. “Not exactly your basic love song.”

Track 3 (Bonus)
“City of Angels”
(album edit) 5:40

GOING FOR ADDS NOW!

“Where You Are” is a strong mix of insightful lyrics and a haunting, infectious melody that explores the mind of a killer—in this case, a very famous killer—with a poignant, “inside his head” story that is both chilling and riveting—not exactly your basic love song.

Tom Sheehan's journalistic, yet poetic, approach to songwriting finds its roots in the news, human relationships and the world around us with songs that are stories told of real people in an engaging and accessible way.
